REDS AGAIN HIT FOR POW HOLD-BACK

Union Fined $25,000 For Strike Violence

Columbus Judge Says UAW Leaders Tried To 'Intimidate' Him

COLUMBUS (AP) — A judge who said two union officials had tried to intimidate him, last night fined Local 927 of the CIO United Auto Workers $25,000 for strike violence at the North American Aviation plant here.

Judge Joseph K. Harter suspended half of a $50,000 fine on condition the union "behaves" and makes restitution for damages.

The judge found the union in contempt of his order limiting picketing and banning interference with workers entering the plant.

In a statement from the bench, the judge said one union leader had threatened to "take care of this judge" in next year's election, and that Elmer Adkins, president of Local 927, had said "if I ruled against the union there would undoubtedly be a lot of union votes cast against me."

The union today issued this statement:

"The union is seriously considering an appeal on the judge's decision. The steep fine is regrettable from our standpoint but does not alter the basic necessity for realistic collective bargaining as a solution to the strike."

THE CONTEMPT charges, pressed by the company, resulted from incidents at the plant gates Tuesday. Nine persons were injured slightly and about 75 automobiles damaged when union men tried to prevent workers from entering the plant.

The union claims the strike of its 12,500 members in Columbus has halted production, but the company claims large numbers of union workers are back on the job and planes are being produced.

Judge Harter said:

"If this union or any union wishes to have the economic benefits of a strike, as guaranteed by the National Labor Relations Act, the union must accept burdens with the benefits. One burden is liability for breach of the peace and the laws of Ohio."

The union claimed Tuesday's incidents were spontaneous and against union orders. The union sponsored a radio broadcast urging members to comply with Judge Harter's orders.

Judge Harter set aside a previous suspended fine of $20,000 against the union for earlier violations of his order. He accepted the union's arguments that it had not been given an opportunity to defend itself against the earlier charges.

The union planned special television programs today and tomorrow in Columbus to "focus the issues."

Negotiations will resume Monday in Los Angeles covering the strike at North American's Columbus, Los Angeles and Fresno, Calif., plants. The union's national officers will take part for the first time.

The union seeks a 26-cent hourly wage boost. The company has offered a four per cent increase on wages ranging from $1.42 to $2.32 an hour.

2 County Girls Hurt In Mishap Near Five Points

Two Monroe Township High School senior girls who were getting ready to leave for Saturday's Ohio State-Michigan football game were injured late Friday in an auto crash near Five Points.

They were Sue Porter, 17, and Miriam Bach, 17, both of Mt. Sterling Road 3.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the crash happened at about 10:15 p. m. Friday on Route 56, about one mile southeast of Five Points.

The Deputy said a car operated by Miss Porter failed to negotiate a curve. The auto snapped off a telephone pole, ripped through a farm fence and rolled over three times, throwing both occupants from the car. It travelled 165 feet into the field.

BOTH GIRLS were rushed into Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, for emergency treatment. Miss Porter suffered multiple face lacerations, possible fracture of her right hip and body bruises. She was held for x-rays.

Miss Bach was treated for body bruises and lacerations and a possible bruised spine.

Judge Provides No Curb Service

HAMILTON (AP) — A mother complained to common pleas court that her estranged husband's parents would not allow her to visit her child.

On investigation the court found the mother would drive up to the in-laws' house, sit in the car, toot the horn and wait until someone carried out the 2-year-old boy.

"Walk in the house and visit the child," ruled Judge Fred B. Cramer yesterday. "There is no curb service provided by this court."

Health Unit Delays Merger Vote, But Only To Give Public Details

Pickaway County Community Health Council postponed Friday night its scheduled vote on a city-county health merger, but only after its members applauded a demand for a "cleanup" of health services and otherwise indicated overwhelming support for the unification move.

Decision to put off a recommendation vote on the merger came, apparently with reluctance, after many members of the health unit admitted they lacked definite instructions from the groups they represent. It was agreed to vote on unification at the council's next meeting in January, and to speed meanwhile the distribution of information on the main points involved.

The health council, which began operating about one year so, selected as its first study a plan to merge the health departments of the city of Circleville and Pickaway County.

Dem Senator Urges Foreign Policy Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gillette (D-Ia.) today urged a complete overhaul of U. S. foreign policy and programs "to bring them in line with President Eisenhower's latest proposals."

"Instead of a race to build the world into two massive military camps, we should put our emphasis on universal knowledge, understanding and cooperation, as the President said," Gillette, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said.

A drastic cutback in multi-billion dollar outlays for military buildups here and abroad is the "only possible way to carry out campaign pledges of tax reductions and a balanced budget," Gillette added.

The Iowa senator referred to Eisenhower's informal speech here Thursday to a Catholic University convocation at which he received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The President said there was no peace in military strength alone and urged unity "among those who think as we do" to convince others that "those who seek peace in terms of military strength alone, I am certain, are doomed to end up in the agony of the battlefield."

Gillette complained that recently "all the emphasis has been placed upon a rapid buildup of military strength."

"Even Germany and Japan, our former enemies, now are being pressured to rearm at huge additional cost to their people and our taxpayers," he said, adding:

"It could bankrupt us economically and morally, as well as all those who follow our leadership."

Alger Hiss Again Seeking Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alger Hiss, whose first request for parole was unanimously rejected last year, gets another chance in an annual review of his case today by the Federal Parole Board.

Hiss, a former State Department employee, was convicted Jan. 25, 1950, on charges of lying when he denied under oath that he passed government secrets to a Soviet spy ring before World War II.

He began serving a five-year sentence March 22, 1951, at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal pen.

POW Who Changed Mind Welcomed Home By Parents

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My son! My son! Bless the Lord!" Shouting these words and waving her arms in the air, Bessie Dickenson early today rushed into the arms of her son, the prisoner of war who embraced communism and then changed his mind.

It was the first time Cpl. Edward Dickenson had seen his mother in more than three years and for a breathless moment a score of reporters and photographers stood mutely by.

Then pandemonium broke loose.

Photo bulbs snapped and questions came from everywhere. In the midst of all this, the Dickensons—mother, father, son and sister—kept on embracing and weeping.

"I thought he was dead," cried Mrs. Dickenson. "But the Lord has given me back my son."

Ed's father, 73-year-old Van Buren Dickenson, kissed the 23-year-old soldier on the cheek.

"God bless you," said the elderly farmer from Cracker's Neck, Va.

THE FAMILY had about 10 minutes together at Andrews Air Force Base. Then Ed was placed in a bus and sent off to the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center for a physical checkup "just like any other POW," said an Army officer.

"It feels wonderful to be home," Ed said.

Then, in response to a question, he said: "Yes, I'm definitely going to reenlist. I haven't spent any time in the Army. I've been in prison practically the whole time."

"Oh, I hope he doesn't go back in," said his mother. "All we want is to have him back with us on the farm."

It was the first trip to Washington for the Dickenson family, who hadn't been away from their home in the southwestern Virginia mountains in 25 years. They made the 450-mile trip to Washington by auto.

They'll stay in Washington a few days sightseeing and they hope to take their son home with them. He's due for a 30-day leave.

Dickenson was one of 25 American soldiers who refused repatriation after the Korean truce was signed. He later changed his mind and asked neutral Indian guards to turn him back to the U. N. side.

The other 22 still have given no indication of a change of heart.

Asked whether he thought any of these would follow his lead, Ed said:

"If they ever can get to them and give them explanations, I'm sure some of them will come back."

"I brought Ed up to know the Lord," Mrs. Dickenson said. "He's a good boy, Ed is."

Control Hunting Plan Explained

Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association, sponsoring group for a new controlled hunting program here when the 1953 upland game season opens, offers the following explanation of its new program:

"Farms posted are not public hunting areas, as a great many people now believe. Most farmers who have participated in the controlled hunting program allow only a limited amount of hunting."

"Idea was to protect farmers from great numbers of hunters from out of the county who usually do not ask permission to hunt."

"Farmers have absolute control as to hunting privileges—only those able to obtain written permits may hunt on posted areas. A posted farm does not mean an open invitation to hunt, as many now believe."

"It is hoped that the program may be greatly expanded in 1954."

'Smaze' Plaguing Eastern Cities; Health Status Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — A four-day concentration of city fume and smoke haze continued today to curtain and harass coastal areas from New England to Virginia.

Health Department authorities in the New York metropolitan area and New Jersey were keeping a close watch on death reports to see if the twilight-gray "smaze" would add to fatalities.

Hundreds of persons have complained of scratchy throats and irritated eyes and noses, with chronic asthma sufferers being the worst hit.

The unseasonably warm weather (yesterday's high was 69.9) has caused his unusual situation: A layer of warm air has formed a ceiling over colder air at ground level, with the upper air acting as a lid to keep fumes and smoke from dispersing. The Weather Bureau terms this an "inversion" of the usual process.

THE ONLY relief in sight was a forecast of "some rain beginning enson said. "There's a Bible in every room of our farm. Ed knows what's right."

"We're going to take Ed home," his mother said. "That's what he needs more than anything else."

Down at Cracker's Neck, the folks were ready to give Ed an open-hearted welcome, but they didn't want any celebration for a "returning hero."

"Ed's no hero," a neighbor said. "We don't want to see him treated like one. We'd rather see him come back quietly without any publicity and just settle down and forget what's happened."

There'll be one celebration, though. That'll be at the Dickenson farm, and the big treat will be some southern fried chicken. It's a special request from Ed, himself.

Salt-Filled Shotgun Blast Kills Hoosier

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A handsome 24-year-old bakery employee was hit in the chest and killed last night by the blast of a shotgun shell filled with table salt.

The victim, Ernest Poor, died inside the doorway of the home of his divorcee girl friend. Sheriff's deputies said the woman's mother admitted firing the shot.

The mother, Mrs. Frances Sperling, 56, was held without bond on a preliminary charge of murder. Sgt. Richard Parker quoted her as saying:

"I'd heard it was a good thing to salt the road with salt. You can't get hurt that way."

Parker said the shooting apparently grew out of a dispute between Poor and the woman's daughter, Mrs. Betty Horton, 28, which ended their romance.

"Ernest said he'd get me if I'd try to quit him," Parker said he was told by Mrs. Horton, the mother of three children.

He said the two women told him that Mrs. Horton had broken up with Poor after a date a week ago, but that he continued trying to see her.

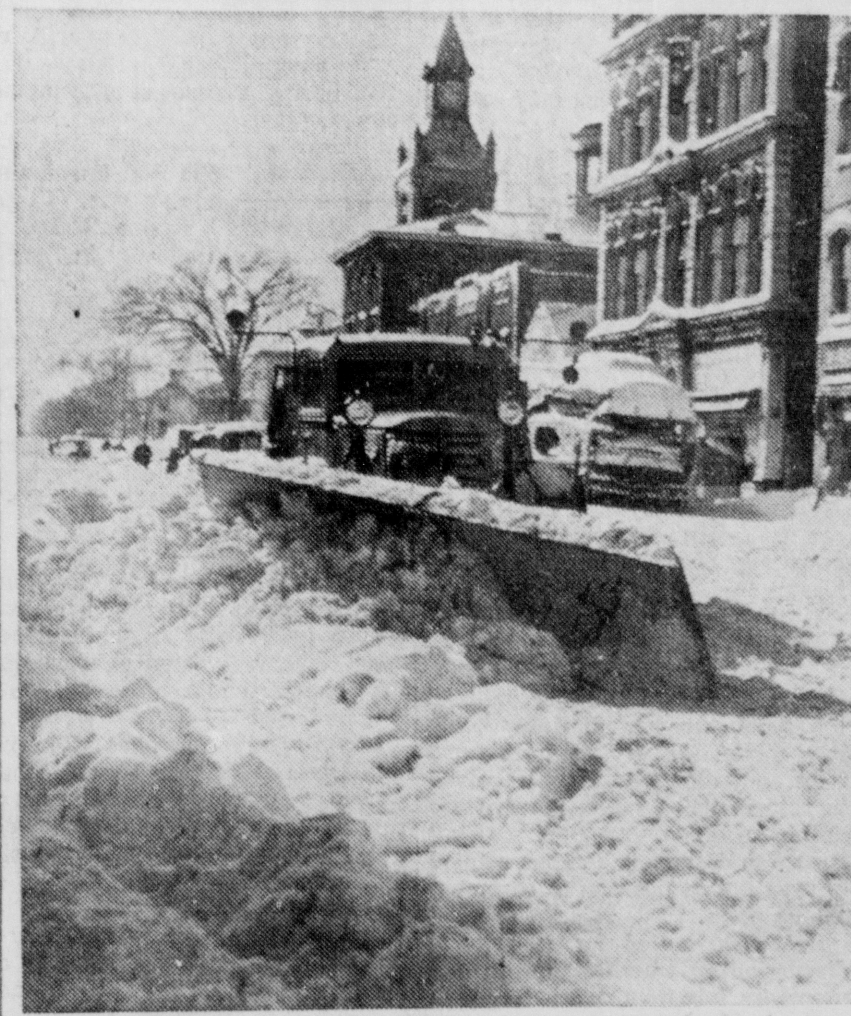

Mrs. Sperling and Mrs. Horton called the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon and reported Poor was trying to get into their house in a northwestern section of the city. He was gone when deputies arrived. Parker said Poor apparently returned to the house later in the evening, and after being refused admittance at the front door, broke through a side door into the dining room. He was met by the salt-shot.

Shooting Star Jet Crashes Eyed

TOKYO (AP) — The U. S. Air Force said tonight it has found the wreckage of a plane in Tokyo Bay but did not know immediately if it was an American jet fighter which crashed last night.

Capt. Arcola C. Johnston of Portland, Ore., pilot of an F80 Shooting Star, is listed as missing.

A second Shooting Star crashed into a factory building in central Japan today after its pilot, 2nd Lt. Merlin C. Miller of Luckey, Ohio, bailed out safely. Kyodo news agency reported a factory guard injured in the crash.

REMEMBER THIS? This is Circleville on a corresponding Saturday just three years ago when the city was struggling out from under its worst blizzard in 37 years. Football fans attending the Ohio State-Michigan game in Columbus were stranded on local highways and were offered the hospitality of local homes. Reason for this scene is the comparison of this year's balmy, Springlike weather with that of only three years ago. Scads of crocuses are blooming in Forest cemetery and many residents still report their flowers are blooming. Temperatures through the day are averaging about 70.

White Case Makes Republicans Happy, But Canada Disturbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Harry Dexter White probe is still very much alive—the Republican party chieftain expressing pleasure with the political results and Canadian officials irked by what they claim was a breach in confidence by the top U. S. legal adviser.

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall said today that the White case has given a "tremendous lift" to the Republican cause in advance of next year's congressional campaigns.

But Democratic senators said they doubt any advantage the Republicans may have gained will be lasting. They predicted the administration's farm and tax programs will be regarded by voters as more important.

Hall said he believes the charges of laxity toward Communists in government, made by Atty. Gen. Brownell against former President Truman, "have helped us."

"The impression I have gained by talking to people all over the country is that this matter has given a tremendous lift to our organization," he said.

HE APPARENTLY holds the view that Brownell's sensational charges (that Truman promoted White despite FBI reports of White's alleged espionage activities) but the Republicans back on the offensive after they had lost special congressional elections in Wisconsin, New Jersey and New York.

Yesterday, a State Department spokesman said Canadian Ambassador A.D.P. Heeney called on Undersecretary W. Bedell Smith and "expressed surprise" at the public disclosure the FBI had information from Canadian government sources in 1946 about White.

Brownell made the disclosure Tuesday when, in testifying before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, he "stripped the secrecy label from an FBI letter to the White House in February 1946."

This was about the time that White, now dead, was promoted from assistant secretary of the Treasury to U. S. representative on the International Monetary Fund.

The letter by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover contained several references to information concerning White "which originated with sources high placed in the Canadian government."

Canadian Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House of Commons in Ottawa yesterday that, to his knowledge, no Canadian government source ever communicated with the U. S. government about White.

1-Way Travel Set Up For River Bridge

One-way traffic has been established at Circleville's Main St. bridge spanning the Scioto River.

The one-way traffic system was put into operation Friday to permit heavier truck traffic east and west through Circleville on Route 22, a federal highway.

Joe Rooney, Pickaway County superintendent of highways, said a new load reduction regulation goes into effect on the bridge with the institution of one-way traffic.

The bridge earlier this Fall had a 50 per cent load reduction regulation put into effect for trucks, based on an axle-distance ratio. With the new one-way traffic program, however, the load reduction has been revised so that there now is only a 10 per cent load reduction in effect.

ROONEY ADDED that a system of automatic traffic lights probably will be installed at the bridge by Tuesday.

The special signals will permit only one line of traffic through the bridge at a time, incorporating a trip device which is to permit traffic to go through without long delay in the event no traffic approaches from the opposite side.

The highway official added his department hopes to get city approval to make W. Mound St. from Western Ave. to the bridge a one-way street, so that the bridge traffic will not be snarled. He said it is hoped to make the street one-way only for east-bound traffic.

U.S. General Tells Commies Stop Stalling

Diplomats Recording Little Progress In Setting Up Peace Talk

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Allies today again accused the Communists of holding back some prisoners of war and told the Reds to turn over to Indian custody immediately "all those POWs you still retain."

Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey told Communist members of the military Armistice Commission that three Korean soldiers who sought refuge at an American sentry box Thursday were South Korean war captives who had been forced into the Red army.

The Communists asked for a recess to study Lacey's statement, then 30 minutes later asked for and were granted more time.

The chief Allied member of the Armistice Commission told newsmen the ROK soldiers provided evidence that the Communists "have forcibly retained prisoners after they had certified that all prisoners had been turned over to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission."

Lacey also told the Communists to "cease delays" and get on with the job of interviewing Chinese and Korean war prisoners who have refused to go home.

THE EXPLANATION program has been stalled by Red refusal to accept Indian rules for speeding up the interviews. Lacey accused the Communists of delaying the program deliberately because of "disastrous" results.

Only about 3 per cent of the approximately 2,500 prisoners interviewed so far have elected to return to Communist rule.

Meanwhile, Allied and Communist diplomats continued efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference without apparent progress.

U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean accused the Reds of delaying and making a farce of the preliminary negotiations.

"Does it really help you to call me a warmonger, untruthful, a rogue, insincere, irrational, lacking in common sense and frivolous?"

Dean curtly rejected a Red suggestion that neutral nations attend the peace conference to regulate the debate of belligerents. He said the suggestion was merely a Communist effort to maneuver Soviet Russia into a position where it could dominate the conference.

The two subcommittees working on peace conference arrangements met for two hours each, then recessed until 9 p. m. Saturday EST.

Dean said it appeared the Red proposal on neutrals meant that if a non-belligerent nation attending the conference called for debate on any subject nothing else could be discussed until the neutral decided that matter was settled.

Indochinese Reds Hit By Paratroopers

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — Thousands of French and Vietnamese paratroopers have jumped deep into mountain territory of the Communist-led Vietminh to grab a major base for new raids on their guerrilla foes.

The French High Command announced their forces, supported by U. S.-supplied fighter bombers, yesterday seized the big rebel war base of Dien Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi.

Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in North Indochina, said the capture:

1. Provides a center of the rallying and training of partisan fighters from the pro-French Thai tribes and for raids by them and the French forces on the Vietminh.

2. Removes a major threat to the Thai tribal capital of Lai Chau, 50 miles to the north. The Vietminh failed to capture Lai Chau in their sweeping offensive last winter.

3. Takes from the rebels a potential springboard for a renewed attack on the kingdom of Laos.

4. Seizes "highly important Vietminh base in the center of a rice growing area and at the crossroads of supply routes to the north-east and to the south."

Cogny said the French dropped "many battalions" on the broad plain around Dien Bien Phu and they quickly captured the town and its airfield. Fighter bombers flew more than 100 sorties.

Health Group Delays Voting On Unification

listeners, "may as well be poured down a rat hole."

Roose said he noted with regret that other members of the advisory council were not present in a body at the Friday gathering, held at the Methodist Church here, so he urged the community health unit to use "a bit of plain, common politics" in bringing its views to the attention of the county spokesmen. He said the advisory body will meet the first Monday in March and suggested that its members be fully contacted prior to that time in an effort to launch a final drive for the health merger.

"I think we need a cleanup!", he said, drawing an outburst of applause.

Mrs. Dick Tootle, president of the community health council, opened the meeting and turned it over to Larry Best, Pickaway County Extension Service agent who had been named program chairman.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED early in the session that 18 district organizations have contributed to operations of the council so far this year. Nearly that many more have also indicated support for its activities.

After Azel Laughlin outlined general functions of the city and county health organizations, Graber gave a general description of three types of unified health systems — two of them open to adoption for this district. One of these two, the "combination" plan, is the type perhaps best known to the local public.

Under this system, health services of the city and county would be under the direction of a doctor serving as health commissioner. He would be appointed by an advisory council, which in turn would consist of members selected in proportion to population for the city and county.

The city-county health organization would operate from one budget and one set of rules and regulations. Graber emphasized the particular advantages of the latter provision. There would be one office and one staff under such a system, and service would be on equal basis to both city and county.

Graber noted the county in any unified operation would outgrow Circleville both in taxable valuation and population, but he pointed also to the fact that the county would automatically require more services and that distances involved would be much greater than those required for city health aid.

The state health department spokesman emphasized either party could withdraw from a city-county merger if, once tried, it was considered unsatisfactory. The governing contract, he said, would provide that either of the two could "retreat" from the arrangement on six months notice.

IF THE health council votes to recommend unification, Graber explained, the proposal could be conveyed through channels in different ways. Most direct, however, would be to place the recommendation before City Council and the county's health advisory council.

In the event both those groups also acted favorably, the mayor of the city and the chairman of the county group would meet to negotiate a contract.

The state health spokesman took notice of complaints from county sources that the city would not be "able to pay its way" in any unified setup. "In our 227 health districts," he said, "we have yet to hear the first complaint, either from the counties or the cities, that the health commissioner is acting unfairly." The commissioner would realize his job would depend upon his ability to serve both the city and county governments effectively, Graber explained.

In giving estimates as to what it would cost here to merge the two departments, Graber made it clear that only rough figures could be offered until definite decisions are made as to the type of setup desired for the district. At the present time, however, he said offers have been made elsewhere in Ohio to pay a commissioner annual salaries ranging from $8,500 to $11,000.

From his knowledge of local needs, Graber said this district would also require at least one sanitarian for the unified setup, at least two highly trained nurses and the part-time service of a third, and at least one clerk. He said Pickaway County is now spending about 56 cents per capita each year for health services, while the city spends approximately 74 cents per capita for the same purpose.

Dr. George Hays, also of the state health branch, aided Graber in various phases of his talk. Dr. Hays declared most taxpayers are unaware of the tax burden caused by "repeat" because of health defects. He and Graber both listed the many different ways in which a unified system would work to reduce such factors in the annual tax totals.

"YET," GRABER commented, "some counties are more concerned with the upkeep of their cemeteries than they are in the health of their residents."

City Councilman Richard Penn, an observer at the meeting, brought out the point that city taxpayers indirectly, to some degree, help meet the cost of operating the county health department under the present arrangement.

Graber also stressed the many free state services that would be opened to the district's health leaders and residents if Pickaway County, including the city, could qualify for such assistance. To qualify, however, the district would have to meet requirements in basic personnel and different services to the public.

Free state services would include:

Use of an x-ray trailer to handle mass surveys to detect tuberculosis in its earliest stages; assistance of high skilled sanitation engineers, industrial hygiene consultants and the like; nutrition services; hearing and vision consultants; a state dental trailer, and a laboratory for special studies designed to aid health care.

Graber estimated such services alone would be worth about $6,000, and mentioned that several nearby health districts are now receiving them from the state without cost. Extension Agent Best at this stage interrupted the state official to ask:

"Do you mean to tell me that we are not qualified at this time to receive any of those free state services?"

Graber confirmed that is true. IN RESPONSE to a query by Bob Brehmer Sr., Graber outlined the amounts of money now being paid for health services in this district and what was being received in return. "You mean if we were getting what we're paying for," Brehmer observed. Graber replied he was not in position to comment on the point.

Best then called for a general discussion on whether the council members felt they carried enough authority from their groups to vote immediately on the unification plan. A majority indicated they did not feel they had been given sufficient authority as yet, due to the previous lack of information on the main points involved.

In the discussion that followed, however, individual members in some cases urged a vote on the merger plan without further delay. Some suggested at least a "personal vote" that would not bind their groups.

Stressing that he was only giving his personal views, Dr. G. D. Phillips cautioned the council against voting immediately on the plan. Some of the other members supported his stand, which eventually was adopted for the council.

"I think our move now is to make further study," Dr. Phillips told the gathering, but he noted the need of the others underlined the need for prompt steps along the lines of such study to permit a final vote in January.

In response to a question from Councilman Penn, Graber said a special meeting of the county advisory health council could be called if needed to speed a final decision.

The health council, shortly before adjournment, approved without a dissenting vote a motion by Laughlin who proposed the necessary information be distributed without delay, so that the vote can be taken in January "without holding up progress on any other subject."

Solon Claims 'Scoop' In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), a newspaperman as well as a veteran congressman, claims a five-year "scoop" on the Harry Dexter White case brought up by Atty. Gen. Brownell.

In Brown's weekly letter to his constituents, which he calls "With a Buckeye in Congress" he writes: "Suffice it to say here, this column carried the story of White's subversive activities back in the summer of 1948—more than five years ago." Brown adds:

"More shocking revelations of treason and espionage within our government are yet to come."

Amey said the incident happened just after a Mr. Davis of the Eagle Tool Co. in Springfield had paid a fine of $20 and costs for an employee, Ernest Peters, arrested by State Patrolman Ray Hoylman for speeding at 70 on Route 22.

The Mayor said Davis was leaving the police station when he spotted one of the city's new schoolboy patrolmen, wearing white web belt and badge, entering the police station.

Sgt. Alvah Shasteen answered the man's questions about the new system and the man, after having just paid $20 and costs for a traffic violation, shelled out $25 to be used in the patrol program.

Carrier Pigeon Strays, Starts Loafing Here

"Casey," the blue-nosed carrier pigeon, was on a bird-food spree in Circleville Saturday, and many feared it would be his last.

Mrs. Eli Hedges of 204 Logan St. reported "Casey" appeared around her home about a week ago, apparently unconcerned over efforts of neighborhood children to turn him into a pet. "Partly because they wanted to trim his wings to keep it, and also because I feared the cat would get it," Mrs. Hedges said, "I took charge of the bird."

"It wasn't all worn out like they say some carrier pigeons are when they get off their course and fall exhausted. As a matter of fact, ever since I put it in a cage for its own protection, it's been eating a lot and seems to be enjoying itself."

Almost as soon as her attention was drawn to the bird, Mrs. Hedges found an aluminum tube on its leg and the message enclosed — presumably in code. Written in pencil on a small piece of white paper, it read:

"AU 51 B2330"

There was no signature or any other means of identification. Mrs. Hedges said "Casey" is a mixture of "blue, white, gray and pink—sort of a mixture."

She said she will hold the wanderer until the owner puts in a claim, but that's where it doesn't look so good for "Casey". Specialists in the way of carrier pigeons whisper it isn't so good when a pigeon takes off on an errand and fails to show up at the other end.

It could be, they say, that "Casey" from now on, is out of a carrying job.

FDR Jr. Ready To Make Race

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late President, said he will run for governor of New York next year if nominated.

"I am not a candidate for governor of New York state, but if I am nominated, as a loyal Democrat of long standing I will run," he said.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican, has not indicated whether he will seek reelection. "I am not a candidate for any office now except for reelection to Congress," Roosevelt said. He represents the 20th Congressional District in New York City.

3 Liquor Agents Are Reinstated

COLUMBUS (AP)—Three state liquor investigators, dismissed last March because of suspected bribery, were ordered reinstated yesterday by the Ohio Civil Service Commission.

The investigators are Stanley J. Delhart, 37, Cleveland; Roland E. Tague, 35, New Lexington, and S. J. Bonnes, 46, Independence. A jury acquitted them July 2 of charges of conspiring to solicit and accept a $150 bribe from Herbert N. Romanoff of Columbus, husband of a permit holder.

They were Herschel Brumfield, 19, of Circleville Route 1, passenger in an auto operated by Robert Brumfield, 16; and Dale Ankrom, 37, of Circleville Route 2.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the crash happened at about 7 p. m. when the Ankrom car, travelling west on the Whisler Road, was driven into the path of the south-bound Brumfield car.

Herschel Brumfield was treated in Berger hospital for rib fractures, head lacerations and a bruised knee. Ankrom was treated for a forehead laceration and possible back injuries.

Front end of the Brumfield car was demolished. The entire right side of Ankrom's auto was demolished.

Texas Sorry His Gifts So Skippy

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A school whose chief benefactor apologetically explained his gifts had amounted to only $25 million, had another $24 million from him today for a football victory.

The school is the University of Houston and the oilman philanthropist with football fever is Hugh Roy Cullen. The oilman, pleased with the school's 37-7 football win over Baylor last week, announced his gift yesterday at a campus pep rally for today's game with Texas Tech.

Lord Of Harvest Is Theme For Presbyterians

"Lord Of The Harvest" is the subject of the Thanksgiving sermon for Presbyterian church Sunday morning. This is the third in a series of four sermons on the general theme, "Christ and Christians," which the Rev. Donald Mitchell is preaching during the pre-Advent season before Christmas.

The Rev. Mr. Mitchell says: "In grateful acknowledgment of the manifold blessings which come from above, and in gratitude for the efforts and sacrifices of our forefathers to live Godly lives and build a nation of God-fearing people, we turn our prayers to the Lord of the Harvest to give thanks; for He long ago has said, 'While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter and day and night shall not cease.' (Genesis 8:22)."

"Greatest of all blessings that have come through the years, is the New Covenant relationship which draws believers close to God in a binding promise, unbroken by Him forever, making secure eternal salvation for all who will accept. 'Behold,' he said, 'I establish my Covenant with you.'"

The choir, Mrs. Clark will direct, is to sing "Praise The Lord, O My Soul." Baritone solo part will be sung by Richard Boerner. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston has chosen "Now Thank We All Our God," "Old Netherlands Melody" and "Song of Thanksgiving" for her organ numbers.

At 8 p. m., a Thanksgiving musicale will be held in the sanctuary, with a reception in the social rooms sponsored by the elders and their wives in honor of new members received into the church. The musicale will include the following program:

Soprano solo: a male Quartet; a trio of harp, violin and organ; also two pianos, four and eight hands, as well as orchestra selections and an anthem by the choir.

The annual Union Thanksgiving service will be held in First Methodist church at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Melvin Maxwell, pastor of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, will preach the sermon. The Rev. James Recob, pastor of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, will preside. Music will be furnished by the Methodist choir.

Church Essentials Is Sermon Theme In Christ Church

"Essentials of New Testament Church Membership" will be the sermon theme Sunday for the Church of Christ, meeting at 159 E. Main St.

"In this lesson will be shown what people in New Testament times had to do to become members of the Lord's Church," points out Evangelist Charles Cochran. "In studying the different cases of New Testament conversion as recorded in Acts of Apostles we do not find the expression, 'Joining the church' mentioned. We do read of the Lord 'adding the saved to the church' (Acts 2:47). The same things that saved them from their sins made them members of the church."

"Jesus said in the Great Commission, 'He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned' (Mk. 16:16). Peter said to those believing Jews on Pentecost, 'Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost' (Acts 2:38). The Samaritans believed and were baptized (Acts 8:12). The Ethiopian Eunuch was asked by Philip if he believed, he confessed his faith in Christ and was baptized (Acts 8:29-40)."

"Saul was told by Ananias, 'And now why tarriest thou? arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord' (Acts 22:16). The Philippian Jailor, an unbeliever, was told to believe on the Lord to be saved. His faith caused him to repent (he washed their stripes) and to be baptized (Acts 16:29-33). Paul told

School Chieftain Talks At Meeting Of Lutheran Men

Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran church met Thursday evening, opening the session with the singing of the hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come."

The Rev. George S. Schultz then led the group in devotion and prayer. The men closed their worship with the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God."

After a very brief business meeting, the men retired to the banquet room for refreshments and fellowship.

They then returned to their meeting room, where they heard a talk by George Hartman, Circleville superintendent of schools. Hartman spoke on a problem which the churches and schools have in common, the problem of youth. He said that tomorrow depends to a large extent on how we meet the needs of youth today, and that a well-rounded program depends upon the home, the church and the school.

He emphasized the need for Christian homes and said that the schools, at best, can only supplement the training of the home. He also spoke of the necessity of surrounding youth with a good environment and commented that Circleville has a good environment for youth and that we must strive to keep it that way.

In turning his attention to the local school situation, Hartman said one of the greatest problems facing the schools here now is that of increased enrollment. He went on to say that, within a short time, present classroom space will not be adequate to meet the needs of our children. He noted that several communities in Ohio already have found it necessary to place first and second grade pupils on a half day basis, and said that this is a very unsatisfactory arrangement.

However, Hartman said, the school board is aware of the problem and he feels confident that steps will be taken to provide additional facilities here before the situation gets out of hand. A question and answer period followed Hartman's talk.

the Galatians, 'For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ' (Gal. 3:26-27)."

"Therefore, in putting the different cases of conversion together, we learn what they did to become members of the church and to be saved from their sins. They (1) believed the gospel; (2) repented of their sins; (3) confessed faith in Christ; and (4) were baptized into Christ. Heaven was assured for them by being faithful unto death (Rev. 2:10)."

Bible Words To Live By

MATTHEW 9:37 — "Then He said to His disciples, 'The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; pray therefore the Lord of harvest to send out laborers into His harvest.'" (RSV)

It is a true picture of the need of China. We have about four million Christians among a great population of over 400 million. In order to obey His call, I have consecrated my life as one of His laborers in China for 20 years.

When I came to this country in 1947 to work among the Chinese, I found the same crying need. Recently under the sponsorship of the National Council of Churches in the U.S.A.

I have made a survey of the Chinese Christian Churches in this country including Hawaii. To my great surprise, only eight per cent of the 150,000 Chinese are Christian. It seems strange to send missionaries to China 10,000 miles away and to neglect the 92 per cent Chinese right at our own door steps.

Let us do something for the un-Christian Chinese in this country. "Pray therefore to the Lord of harvest to send out laborers into His harvest."

Dr. Peter Y. F. Shih, Chinese Christian Church Boston, Mass.

Compassion for a Needy World

CHRIST AND ANCIENT HEBREW LAWS WERE CONCERNED FOR THE POOR AND STRANGERS.

Scripture—Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 10:18-19; Ruth 2:1-18; Matthew 9:35-36; 25:34-40; Mark 1:32-34; 8:1-9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN OUR WORLD there are so many destitute and hungry people; so many strangers in lands foreign to them, that our lesson is particularly appropriate.

Hardly a day passes that we are not appealed to for help for needy persons in far-off places. Every Christian church is collecting parcels of food and clothing to send to these hapless persons, and many civic organizations are doing the same.

Still others are sending modern machines to undeveloped or backward countries with experts to show the workers in those lands how to use the machines to more fully develop their natural resources, and health brigades are fighting disease all over the world.

Teachers will find ample materials in this lesson for all the grades in the Sunday school. Many of the children have schoolmates who have come from other countries, some not able to speak our language, or speaking it haltingly. Their attitude toward these strangers can make a tremendous difference to them.

In the ancient Hebrew laws laid down in Leviticus we find these instructions:

"And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest. And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the Lord thy God."

Again in Deuteronomy: "He doth execute the judgment of the fatherless and widows, and loveth the stranger, in giving him food and raiment. Love ye therefore the stranger: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt."

Children know what it is to feel like strangers when they first enter school or change from one school to another. Many adults have been strangers in foreign countries and felt its loneliness. Many have nostalgic feelings when moving even from one location to another in their own country. Should we not, then, understand and strive to alleviate the homesickness of those who flee to our country for refuge from their former homes?

Part of the always delightful story of Ruth, the Moabitess who loved her mother-in-law so much that she refused to leave her when both became widows, was that she accompanied her to Bethlehem, Naomi's home. To help to support the two, Ruth desired to go into a field and glean after the reapers. Naomi gave her consent and she went to the field of Boaz, a rich relative of Naomi's husband, Abimelech.

Seeing the stranger among the maidens he knew who were also gleaning, Boaz asked her name, and being told who she was, he told her to stay close to the others, to eat with them, and that he had told his young men not to touch her, and he also told them to leave extra gleanings for her.

Ruth said, "thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaids."

Matthew tells us about Jesus going about to all the cities and villages, teaching in the synagogues and preaching the gospel, also healing the sick and diseased. "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."

Also included in our lesson is the Olivet discourse, where Jesus gives a picture of the judgment of living nations on earth. The disapproval or commendation had to do with those who had or had not fed the hungry, visited the sick and those in prison, and clothed the naked.

At the home of Simon Peter and Andrew, after Jesus had cured Simon's wife's mother of a fever, multitudes who heard of it brought their sick and those possessed with evil spirits to the house to have the Master cure them. "And He healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils."

Another instance of the Lord's compassion is told us by St. Mark. Hearing of all the miracles done by the Lord, great multitudes followed Him wherever He went. Often they stayed with Him for long periods. Once when this happened, Jesus called His disciples to Him and said:

"I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with Me three days, and have nothing to eat: And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far."

The disciples said they had not enough food to feed so many, but Jesus asked how much they had, and they said seven loaves and a few small fishes. He told the multitude to sit down on the ground, and He took the food, gave thanks for it, and fed them bountifully, with much to spare.

Forgetting our own problems, let us have compassion—as Jesus Christ had—for all who are less fortunate than ourselves, and help them in every possible way. Feed the hungry, as He did, cloth the naked, and visit the sick and bereaved. Make the strangers in our midst feel warmly welcome, and thus help, even in small ways, to make this troubled world a better place to live in.

'Credit' Theme Is Readied For Calvary Church

A Thanksgiving theme will run throughout the 9 a. m. Sunday service of worship in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

The Rev. J. B. Recob, who will speak on the topic, "Who Gets the Credit?" will point out the grave fact that all too often, because of our preoccupation with the good works we think we are doing, we lose sight of what God does for us, and, at the same time, we lose the fine art of being thankful for His many gifts to us.

Christian Carols Choir, directed by Mrs. Richard Crawford, will sing two Thanksgiving anthems: "Praise Ye the Father," and "A Song of Thanksgiving."

Miss Minnie Wilkerson, church pianist, will contribute to the spirit of worshipfulness by playing the prelude and the offertory music. She also will accompany the congregation as familiar Thanksgiving hymns are sung.

Dale DeLong, Sunday school superintendent, will assist the pastor in conducting the worship service. He also will be in charge of the church school setion of Sunday's unified morning program.

"Ode to Thanksgiving" will be Miss Lucille Kirkwood's organ prelude to introduce unified worship service at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Following a Thanksgiving emphasis, the congregation will sing hymns entitled "Thank and Praise, Jehovah's Name" and "Now Thank We All Our God." The church choir, under the direction of Montford Kirkwood Jr., will sing an anthem, "Make a Joyful Noise Unto God."

"Come . . . With Thanksgiving" is the sermon theme of the Rev. Carl L. Wilson. From a scriptural directive in Psalm 95:2 . . . "Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving," the Rev. Mr. Wilson says:

"Through the Bible God gives various calls to mankind to come for specific purposes. He calls to 'come apart yonder to worship.' 'Come and behold the beauty of the Lord.' 'Come ye that are weary.' 'Come ye to the waters and drink.' 'Come ye and sanctify yourself before the Lord,' and numerous calls to 'Come.'"

The last chapter of the Bible, Revelation 22, includes a multiple appeal to 'Come.' . . . And the spirit and the bride say, 'Come. And let Him that heareth say, 'Come. And let him that is athirst come.' Each of these invitations to come meets some phase of man's spiritual need. This is true of the scripture in Psalm 95. . . 'Come, with thanksgiving.'"

"Thanksgiving is an observatory from which to level our telescope upon the goodness of God. We are individuals but we are also members of society. Community thanksgiving is the voice of the church. We thank God for life and health. These we share together. When a plague strikes a city, terror reigns. Thank God for life with all its implications for real living in terms of allegiance to God and service to one's fellowmen. We need to be thankful for the benefits of civilization, for ordered government, for scientific improvements, for education, institutions of benevolence, industry and art. America has done much to improve the lot of the common people and we must share it with the world."

"We should be thankful for Christian environment where temperance and god will are encouraged and fellowship with kindly and understanding folks is possible. What would be our lot without the church, the open Bible, and the free gospel of Christ? These are values beyond man's power to estimate and give much to offer thanks unto God. We are thankful for faith in the midst of tragedy. There is God who understands and cares."

"Dark and mysterious may be our lot in life, but God's way is good and true. Our trust in the Lord is our salvation. We are grateful for the vision of better things to be, for the promise of Christ's kingdom and universal brotherhood in Him. It is our highway from despair, cynicism and degeneracy. We thank God for the hope eternal. This life is but the seed of a life that will blossom into unimaginable glory according to the promise of the Lord. When man begins to enumerate those things for which he is thankful, they are as numerous as the sands of the sea. Therefore let every person hear the call, 'Come. . . with thanksgiving.'"

Church school classes will study a Bible lesson, "Christian Compassion for a Needy World."

Persons attending the service are to bring contributions for the Christian service needy family food basket and their Thanksgiving building fund offering.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

"And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest; and thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger."

"And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel among the people, and healing every disease. And when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."</

WILL BE CONFUSED

FIVE DICTIONARIES ARE being completed under the Red China regime, according to a news report. These will enable anyone to ascertain what any given Chinese symbol means in English, French, Spanish, Hungarian and Latin.

But difficulties will no doubt be encountered in translating some Chinese words into English. Variation in semantics between the Communist and the non-Communist world is something to confound a n expert.

Red China, for example, defined a conscripted combatant in the Korean war as a volunteer. Red leaders, backed by military and police power, kick and cuff the people into line and call it democracy. A peaceful nation is an aggressor and any non-aggressive nation is a bloody warmonger.

The Communists boast that the big lie is basic in their propaganda which they call truth. A neutral is one who hews to the Communist line. Freedom is slavery, a trial is a kangaroo court where they drug and torture confessions out of victims and justice is anything a Red leader may have in mind.

Perhaps some words will retain their pristine meanings in those Red Chinese dictionaries, but it is to be feared that a searcher after truth will become badly confused.

EGGS BIG BUSINESS

BIG BUSINESS, OF WHICH so much has been heard in recent years, has entered another field, with the prediction that the farm woman, with her flock of chickens, may be put out of the competition in the nation's egg market.

Great "egg factories" are being established in various states, with facilities for housing flocks of 25,000 and upwards. The once-common farm flock of 100 hens or less is rapidly disappearing, and a long-continued source of revenue for the farmer will vanish.

Through scientific care and feeding the eggs are said to be superior to the farm variety, and will go directly from factories to the market in a much fresher condition. Even the price may be affected in behalf of the housewife. Egg production is becoming big business instead of a side-line effort.

During former lean years in the agricultural industry butter and eggs represented an important source of revenue, especially on the prairies, where crop failures came too often. Eggs became a common means of exchange in the stores, and provided food and clothing for many families. With the coming of better farm prices egg money no longer was necessary, and the cracked sugar bowl in the pantry shelf went out of business.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In all the discussion of the Harry Dexter White case, little is said about White's stupendous operations. This man had risen to an extraordinary position in the Department of the Treasury of the United States principally because his first chief, Henry Morgenthau Jr., was not a technician in the field.

During the period of World War II, many problems arose which required more knowledge and experience than Morgenthau possessed. A group of skilled technicians and economists were brought into the department through White's influence.

This group, consisting of White, Harold Glasser, Charles Kramer, William Ludwig Ullman, Victor Perlo, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, Virginus Frank Coe, William Henry Taylor, Solomon Adler, and a few others on lower levels, was able to control Treasury policies which affected not only this but other countries. They combined with Alger Hiss in the State Department; Lauchlin Currie and Michael Greenberg in the White House; William Remington and Michael Lee in the Department of Commerce; and others in other departments.

This interlocking of forces gave them a strength far beyond anything imaginable outside the government.

1. White organized the Bretton Woods Conference, which developed the give-away program. Bretton Woods came up with a plan for an International Monetary Fund and a plan for an International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank).

Into the International Monetary Fund, the United States agreed to put up $2.750 billion, or 31 per cent; into the Bank, the United States put up $3.175 billion, or 35 per cent. These agencies were intended to develop great economic power, the Fund dominating, to a degree, the currencies of the world.

This is not the place to discuss the nature either of the Fund or the Bank, except to say that whoever ran them could affect tremendously the economics of the entire world. They could control the value of the American dollar. Harry Dexter White organized the International Monetary Fund and was its U. S. executive director. Virginus Frank Coe became its secretary and was succeeded by William Henry Taylor, both of whom were named in Attorney General Brownell's testimony.

2. For a century or more, China's currency had been stable, although as the price of silver rose, increasing amounts of silver were exported to the United States, leaving China with nothing but valueless paper money. The United States Treasury agreed to assist China to stabilize her currency.

Harry Dexter White, Lauchlin Currie, Harold Glasser, Charles Kramer, Solomon Adler and others got into the act. In a period of disastrous inflation, these Treasury aides and advisers helped further to wreck China's currency. It was this that paved the way for the Communist conquest of China. There can be no question but that investigation will prove that Americans helped the Chinese Communists.

3. The so-called Morgenthau Plan is now costing the United States billions of dollars. We now know that it was designed to wreck Germany and to keep that country under Russian control. The original Morgenthau Plan, entitled "Program to Prevent Germany from Starting a World War III," clearly eliminates the United States from Germany.

DIET AND HEALTH

A Result of Migraine Attacks

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

HALLUCINATIONS have long been thought by many to be the private property of the mentally disturbed. And, most commonly, this remains true.

However, hallucinations can occur in mentally normal persons. These are frequently seen following severe migraine headaches.

By definition, to see something that is not normally there, to imagine an object in a different shape or form than it actually exists, to hear something that does not exist, or to sense or perceive anything not objectively real is known as an hallucination.

Distorted Body Images

Not only may the person suffering from migraine complain about blurred vision, fleeting forms, and spots before his eyes, but he may imagine or actually see a distortion of body images. There may at times be distortions of certain parts of the body which bloom out and swell in unnatural ways.

A good example occurs when the person will have the impression that his head, or someone else's head, is floating far above his neck. He may even feel compelled to hold it down, so strong are these hallucinations.

Dwarfed Sensation
Preceding migraine attacks

some persons may have the feeling that they have shrunk to less than half their size, while others feel about twice their normal size. This disease is known as migraine hallucinations and is more common than is believed. Many persons will not admit to it because of the tendency to associate hallucinations with insanity.

The diary of Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland," reports that he was a sufferer from migraine headaches. Since the imaginative sequence of Alice through the looking glass is similar to many of the type of hallucinations described above, I often wonder if many of the descriptions he wrote about might not have been pictured by him following a migraine attack.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

H. J.: My eyelids are red and inflamed, and I have a great deal of discharge coming out of my eyelids. What causes this and what would you advise?

Answer: You are probably suffering from a low grade infection of the eyelids known as conjunctivitis. This can be helped by the use of eye ointments containing various antibiotic drugs. However, you should have an examination by your physician so that he can determine what type of germ is causing the infection and the proper antibiotic can then be used to treat it.

SYNOPSIS

Charlotte Morgan's cats tried to tell her something when she returned to her apartment late the night before Christmas Eve after a long, bitter day of trying desperately to keep her mind on her creative advertising work in the hostile offices of the hated "King." She still could feel the eyes of Eric Hay burning into the back of her neck. She was serving a sentence, couldn't quit. The next day, while other office workers are holding Yule parties, "The King" postpones a staff meeting from 10:30 a. m. to 2 p. m. While waiting, Charlotte admits to herself that she is in love with Eric. At the afternoon conference she notices red blisters on the wrists of Kingsley Cummings—"The King." She surmises that he is allergic to cats.

CHAPTER FOUR

DOROTHY went out to the washroom and came back with red eyes. Everyone knew she'd been hopelessly in love with the King for years, as had so many others. As far as anyone knew, Dorothy's love was unrequited.

"I just had an idea," she said. "Let's have a party. All of you come over to my place tomorrow night, and we'll stick pins in an effigy of The King. How about it?"

Only Norma and Mario weren't sure they could make it. The happy home folks, Charlotte thought. People with mothers and families. The dotsman is glad to have some place to go.

"Maybe we can drop by for a drink," Norma said, "on our way back from my mother's. And now let's get out of this trap, before I scream."

They all rode down in the old-fashioned elevator with its ornate, open grillwork.

Miss Van Camp peered down the shaft of the next elevator, down six floors into emptiness. "Oooh, I can't look," she shuddered. "Imagine if this thing ever crashed!"

Charlotte looked, too, down, down, and kept looking, as if mesmerized.

Then they were all saying, "Merry Christmas," and hurrying off, even Eric. For a minute Charlotte stood alone on the sidewalk. From a Fifth Avenue church came the caroling chimps of "Ho, Ho, Ho," each note floating away like smoke. The people hurried past, jostling her with their gay, gift-wrapped bundles, hurrying home for Christmas. A young couple laughed into each other's faces, and the silent snowflakes meandered down and melted.

Slowly Charlotte sloshed along the sloppy street. Her boots seemed very heavy, and she concentrated on putting down one foot and picking up the other.

Merry Christmas. Merry Christmas, indeed.

She had eaten the single chop and fed the cats, who now sat in front of the sizzling radiator washing their ermine bits. She'd slipped on the red wool robe and turned off the radio because nothing except sentimental carols came out of it. Now she lay on the couch, staring up at the crack that wavered across the ceiling.

The quiet hung like suspense. It occurred to Charlotte that she might well be the only soul in the building; even the oddly assorted characters who called this home would find some place to go on Christmas Eve.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington columnist devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent directly to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why all the excitement and resentment over issuing a subpoena to President Truman, Justice Clark and Cabinet members to testify on the White case before a congressional committee?" inquires Mrs. L. S. of Springfield, Mass. "Preserving their dignity and prestige is not so important as finding out how Russian spies can climb high in our government, even after their disloyalty has been reported by the FBI."

Answer: It is difficult to discuss this question calmly in the atmosphere of emotion and bitterness which Attorney Brownell's charges have provoked.

Instead of an orderly effort to obtain the facts about an extremely important matter, it has become a race for headlines among Republicans on Capitol Hill, both individuals and committees, and generally a low-down performance. What should have been high drama has been degraded into political buffoonery.

QUESTIONING — Nevertheless congressional bodies should have the authority to question, politely and sensibly, members of the other branches of the government, even if a constitutional amendment is necessary to give them that power.

Otherwise, a President or Supreme Court justice can avoid congressional examination of their official conduct simply by citing the provision for the tripartite separation and independence of the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

It is true that the founding fathers, mindful of British monarchs' domination of Parliament, did make the three branches separate and equal and independent. But I doubt if they intended that they should be noncooperative and hostile toward each other.

EVIDENCE — I covered the Senate investigation of the Teapot Dome scandal and the Department of Justice rackets almost 30 years ago, in which former Cabinet members Fall, Daugherty and Denby testified. Their evidence was necessary to prove that fraud and bribery had figured in the giveaway of valuable oil lands. They did not refuse to appear under a protest that it was an invasion of the executive arm.

Justice Clark has resorted to this excuse on several occasions when his actions as attorney-general were under scrutiny. He bowed out with regard to his lame prosecution of Kansas City ballot-stealing, his failure to prosecute Internal Revenue violators, and the other day in the Harry Dexter White mess.

COULD HAPPEN — Now, although this query may not apply to the Truman-Clark relationship, what is to prevent a President, knowing or suspecting that his chief law officer has been involved in shady or partisan operations, from making him immune from investigation and punishment by naming him to the Supreme Court of the United States?

Think that one over!

By Ray Tucker

"What light do the Harry Dexter White developments throw," asks L. K. of Tulsa, Okla., "on the Truman-Eisenhower argument that purging of Reds in the government can be left to the Federal Bureau of Investigation?"

Answer: White House and Cabinet neglect of FBI warnings against White demolishes that contention. The FBI can investigate and report its findings to the attorney-general, but it cannot make them public or initiate any prosecution. That is entirely up to the politically minded men heading the D of J and in the White House.

I have suggested that J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director, should have spilled the White story, when he saw him promoted. I did not mean that Hoover had any authority to make public his withheld dossier on White. I meant that he should have resigned his office, and then awakened Congress and the people to the Red conspiracy. A. A. Berle Jr. should have done the same thing when, in 1938, F. D. R. laughed off the Chambers evidence against Alger Hiss.

Girl Scouts Obtain Album Of Scout Songs

Sing Together, an album of songs Girl Scouts sing, is now available to Girl Scout leaders at the Pickaway County District Public Library. The album, purchased by the Girl Scout Association, contains two unbreakable ten-inch records for use with standard 78 rpm players.

Twelve favorite songs make up the records. For ceremonies there are "O Beautiful Banner," "Girl Scouts Together," "When'er You Make a Promise," "Peace of the River" and "Taps." There are folk songs especially appropriate for the out-of-doors, such as "The Ash Grove," "The Gypsy Song" and "The Wayfarer's Grace."

"The Greeting Song" and "Sing Together" are included to show the fun and harmony groups can achieve in part singing. Last but not least is the international group which includes "Our Chalel" and the "World Song," each with one stanza sung in French. All the songs except the new "World Song" are taken from the familiar publications Sing Together, A Girl Scout Songbook and The Ditty Bag so that you can refer to the written music if desired.

The songs are sung with freshness and vitality by girls who were carefully trained as a group before the records were cut. The diction is so good that it would be quite possible for anyone to learn songs directly from the records.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Harpster and Yost Hardware, 107 E. Main Street, Phone 136.

Russian Textile Factories Chided

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastase Mikoyan, using new powers granted him, has publicly disgraced and penalized two well-known Soviet textile factories for producing poor cloth.

A copy of the newspaper Trud, received Friday, said Mikoyan, acting in his position as minister of trade, sent back to the plants immense quantities of bad cloth. He also sharply cut orders for new textiles.

The factories will thus be unable to fulfill their production plans this year, and workers and executives will not get their usual production bonuses.

Sports Group Planning Gun, Fish Programs

Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association Thursday night laid plans for two special youth programs.

First of the programs is a proposed instruction class for youngsters in the safety and handling of guns, a program planned to encourage safety and reduce hunting accidents.

The sports group hopes to have a few of its members receive special certificates which will make them available to teach youngsters in the art of handling guns of all types. A rigid examination must be passed by instructors in the program.

Offered through the auspices of the National Rifle Association, the program is sponsored by the League of Ohio Sportsmen and its affiliated groups, which includes the Pickaway County Club.

ALSO PLANNED during Thursday's meeting of the group, which featured a large turnout of members, was a program for young fishermen, to begin early next year. The program would offer instruction to youngsters in the art of fishing and in the observance of laws and good sportsmanship.

Next meeting of the county sports group will be Dec. 17 in Memorial Hall, when new officers will be elected. A rabbit supper is planned for the event, providing the club is able to obtain the rabbits.

Pediatrician Urges Parents To Teach Children Safety

Letting Child Get Hurt Said Best Method

Dr. Dietrich Says Planned Mishaps Most Valuable

One of the country's leading pediatricians says the best way to teach a child safety is to let him get hurt.

Dr. Harry F. Dietrich says parents should use those frequent child mishaps as part of a planned campaign to teach safe behavior patterns.

Many parents, Dr. Dietrich says, worry constantly about polio, pneumonia and the like but do little or nothing about safety although "accidents kill more children every year than polio, heart disease, pneumonia, cancer or leukemia, and tuberculosis combined."

Dr. Dietrich is pediatrician at the Beverly Hills, Calif., clinic and is outspokenly of the opinion that doctors are as obligated to give parents some balanced advice on child safety as they are to prescribe a balanced formula for baby.

HE SAYS preventing accidents to your child "means merely that you give him protection and education in the proper proportions." During his first year, a baby needs complete protection, but after his first birthday he's old enough to learn from an object lesson. So start letting your child have his little accidents.

In fact, Dr. Dietrich recommends that you plan some. In this way you can immunize your child against serious accidents in the same way doctors immunize people against diseases.

"Expect a reasonable number of cut lips, chipped teeth and bloody fingernails," Dr. Dietrich advises. "Properly handled, these things are 'educational'."

"Let him—by tasting mustard, vinegar, or maybe alum—learn that not everything in a bottle or dish is palatable," he suggests. "Let him in his daily experience learn that water in his air passages is not necessarily pleasant or desirable."

"Permit him to find out that he is not unsinkable. Go on—let him get his finger caught in the egg beater. That way he'll learn about moving machinery from a comparatively harmless gadget and might never be prompted to stick his chubby fist in an electric fan."

Such a series of carefully selected minor mishaps will help your child develop a sound foundation for judgment and horse sense.

But, Dr. Dietrich cautions, a little fuss about a little accident will do more harm than good. If you reward him for his bruises and tears with sweet words or tidbits "he will probably forget his lesson and remember only that playing with fire begets cookies."

"What is needed," Dr. Dietrich concludes, "is a sane approach. Don't worry so much about accidents that you cripple your child with too much protection."

Slayer Sentenced

CINCINNATI (AP)—Judge Charles E. Weber sentenced Thomas Myrich, 48, yesterday to life imprisonment for the shotgun slaying of his mistress, Bessie Jon, 37.

Industrial Commission Aides Work Like Human Sardines

Editor's Note: The following is the last in a series of articles concerning the Ohio Industrial Commission.

By BILL TERRY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ever see a human sardine at work? You can in the State Office Bldg. in Downtown Columbus.

The best place is in one of the many offices of the state industrial commission whose operations are scattered over six floors, the basement, and sub-basement of that basement and overflow into a warehouse on Short street and an office on S. Third Street.

The commission administrators what from the standpoint of claims probably is the largest accident insurance business in the nation. It receives 1,200 claims a day, and most are settled within 10 days.

About 700 persons work for the commission, mostly in Columbus, but some in the branch offices at Toledo, Lima, Dayton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Mansfield, Akron, Youngstown, Martins Ferry, Canton, Portsmouth, Logan and Zanesville. There's a representative at Springfield, too.

They handle about 40 million dollars in injury and death benefits yearly and about the same amount of money coming in yearly from 104,000 covered Ohio employers.

Partly because the workers are jammed together and have so little working space, it takes two hours to tour the offices.

By law the claims section has to keep case files for 10 years. That's why they overflow from the third floor, to the basement (next to some snow removal equipment) to a warehouse six blocks away. And when someone telephones long distance about a case, there's a good chance it isn't handy. In all there are several million case files one place or the other.

The commission would like to have enough space to keep all its claims in one location. Cases being worked on currently are piled so high on desks one has to thread his way carefully through the claims section as so not to knock any to the floor.

There's not enough desk space for all the typists that section needs during the day. The problem was solved by hiring a dozen good high school typists to work four hours each evening. Some of the girls after graduation go on to regular state jobs, some work during the summer vacation period.

Receiving and numbering claims is but one of the many jobs commission workers perform. In each case employers are checked to see whether they paid workmen's compensation premiums for the period covered by the accident. Experts check the claims for accuracy and completeness. There's a legal section to advise the commission on borderline cases and to handle rehearings. Last year 1,875 cases were filed for rehearing.

The safety and hygiene section compiles statistics on causes of accidents and passes the information on to industry. Every year there are a score of sectional safety meetings sparked by the commission and attended by labor, management, local chambers of commerce, and other interested folk.

The commission's mailing operation along is stupendous.

The commission has its medical section and field men make a continuous check of workers receiving benefits to find out their needs and physical condition.

There even is a representative on the atomic energy plant site in Pike County, working with contractors on good safety practices. The commission has been complimented for its service in that area.

It costs about five million dollars every two years to operate the huge operation, and over a period of years administration has cost 8½ per cent of the amount taken in in premium.

Air Coach Business Hits Record High

Industry's Leaders Have Bright Outlook About Their Future

NEW YORK (AP)—The air coach business, providing fast transportation for 30 per cent less than standard fare, continues to climb like a jet plane. The industry thinks this sort of thing can go on for years.

Airline men, pointing out profit margins are slim, like to suggest that only the angels fly cheaper. But since the future of the industry appears to be in the mass-transportation field, they're out to make the most of it.

Nearly all of them plan to put additional planes into this service in the months ahead. Many will be older aircraft that spent their seven-year depreciable life on the standard-fare runs. For the air coach—or "air tourist"—business is based on the most economical handling of the greatest number of people. You get there without many of the so-called "frills" of standard-fare travel.

The industry is confident about the outlook for business next year and in the years beyond that, largely because of the growth prospects in the coach field.

"We see a substantial growth in 1954," says William J. Hogan, vice president and treasurer of American Airlines. "And we look for a 100 per cent growth between 1953 and 1960. The greater part of this will be in the tourist bracket, but standard fare traffic also is growing."

"The volume of domestic air travel," says President Harold R. Harris of Northwest Orient Airlines, "should be greater in 1954 than in 1953, but tourist class travel, because of its price appeal, should constitute an increasingly large proportion of the traffic carried." Harris adds that new trans-Pacific coach service is expected to bring "much heavier" travel on those routes next year.

Pan American World Airways notes a 25 per cent jump in traffic between the mainland and Hawaii since air tourist service was started last December. Traffic and Sales Vice President Willis G. Lipscomb makes this forecast:

"Within the next five or six years tourist fare passengers will make up 75 per cent of transatlantic air travel. First class volume is expected to remain relatively static."

Eastern Air Lines expects to increase the percentage of coach-class business to 50 per cent of the total from the present 30 per cent.

President W. A. Patterson of United Air Lines also sees growing coach traffic.

"Airlines may have to take a hard look at the continual erosion of our rate structure by coach fares, family fare plans and lower mail and freight rates," comments A. V. Leslie, treasurer and vice president of Trans World Airlines.

Scioto's FFA Group Planning Dec. 4 Meeting

A special conservation-vocational agriculture program will be held for Scioto Township Future Farmers of America on Dec. 4 in the Scioto Township School auditorium.

Speaker for the program will be A. W. Short, long-time conservation education specialist with the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

Efforts toward a more effective conservation education program for Ohio was given a greatly needed boost through the signing of a co-operative agreement between the Ohio Division of Wildlife and the Ohio Division of Vocational Agriculture of the department of education.

The agreement provides for the assignment of Short to supervise a conservation education program within the Vocational Agriculture Division.

THIS PROGRAM, according to terms of the agreement, will be aimed at carrying on a wildlife management program in the farmland areas of the state, and for conducting of an educational program to acquaint farmers and farm youth with the needs of farm wildlife and problems relating to wise management of natural resources in the best interest of the people.

Short will work directly with the Vocational Agriculture Division, concentrating his efforts with the Ohio Vocational Agriculture teachers and the Ohio Future Farmers of America, a group numbering approximately 10,000 farm boys taking vocational agriculture in 326 high schools in the state. Assistance also will be given adult evening classes.
